

September 28, 2010

Dear Members and Friends:

This past Sunday, the members of Foundry overwhelmingly approved a new policy that allows same-gender marriages at our church and supports clergy who perform the ceremonies. The vote was 367 to 8.

At Sunday's Church Conference, District Superintendent David Argo announced to the congregation that Bishop Schol would likely issue a response to the vote. Therefore, the letter sent out by the Bishop comes as no surprise to those attending Sunday's Conference. The full text of Bishop Schol's letter is included, below, just as it was sent yesterday to all clergy and lay delegates of the 700 churches of the Baltimore-Washington Conference.

With a keen understanding of Bishop Schol's role in the United Methodist denomination, we have a deep appreciation for the tone and objectivity of his letter. We are grateful that Bishop Schol recognized the central role of church laity in the drafting and consideration of this policy. As part of the Baltimore-Washington conference, we are always thankful for the pastoral care Bishop Schol provides to our congregation.

As Dean Snyder urged the congregation on Sunday, our role is to keep our relationship with God focused on the work of our church's ministry -- not on how others may react to our decision to honor and support the Christian marriage of same-gender couples. To quote Dean, "nothing is going to happen that we can't handle."

We, the Congregational Council, felt it was important to provide Bishop Schol's letter to you. We share this letter in the hopes that all of us read it with astute ideas that are focused on moving forward and continuing our mission to transform the world by deepening our faith and being of service to our neighbors.

Congregational Council
Foundry United Methodist Church

From: bishopsoffice@bwcumc.org
Sent: Monday, September 27, 2010 1:24 PM
Subject: Letter from Bishop Schol

September 27, 2010

Dear Sisters and Brothers of the Baltimore-Washington Conference,

On Sunday, September 26, the congregation of Foundry United Methodist Church voted (377 to 8) to adopt a policy that allows the church building to be used for wedding ceremonies for gays and lesbians. The lay leadership requested that the district superintendent be present for this vote, which was taken at a church conference. To ensure the denomination was represented, I instructed the superintendent to be present and to insure that the United Methodist position was communicated during the meeting.

The policy was developed and presented by the laity of the church after months of study and discernment. It states that the congregation is committed to being United Methodist and working within the denomination to change The Book of Discipline. Performing same-gender marriages has become increasingly discussed by congregations in Washington, D.C. since the passage of the Marriage Equality Act in March of 2010.

We in The United Methodist Church are divided over the full inclusion of gays and lesbians in the church. Since 1972, every General Conference has debated full inclusion. There are passionate arguments using Scripture, tradition, reason and experience from those who are opposed to the church fully including gays and lesbians and from those who are calling for full inclusion. I recognize that good people of faith will disagree about the church's position on matters of faith, theology, ecclesiology, culture, and polity. I grieve when our differences divide us and set group against group and people against people. I mourn that sometimes differences are turned into anger and even hatred.

In the midst of differences, United Methodists are guided by the Book of Discipline. The Discipline is clear that we "do not condone the practice of homosexuality (Book of Discipline paragraph 161F) and it is a chargeable offense for a clergy person to conduct a holy union or marriage for gays and lesbians (Book of Discipline paragraph 2702.1.b). We also "implore families and churches not to reject or condemn lesbian and gay members and friends. We commit ourselves to be in ministry for and with all persons" (Book of Discipline paragraph 161F).

Foundry members report they based their actions on the church's constitution, which states that "in the United Methodist Church no conference or other organizational unit of the church may be structured to exclude any member because of race, color, national origin, status or economic condition."

As your bishop, I serve the whole church and I commit to work with all people. In the midst of these difficult matters of the church, I will do all I can to be fair and compassionate as I work to maintain the unity and witness of the church. As a bishop of the church I am responsible for upholding our Book of Discipline and will process and follow through with any complaint or charge against a United Methodist clergy person of the Baltimore-Washington Conference who performs a same gender wedding or holy union.

I call upon all of our clergy and laity to pray for one another in the midst of our differences. I encourage you to be bridge builders within our conference, churches and communities so that differences may be expressed and we continue to live and minister together as the body of Christ. I call upon you also to practice the discipline of holy conversation with someone you disagree with about any issue in the church. I believe holy conversation about differences strengthens the body of Christ.

I pray for you daily as we make disciples for the transformation of the world. Thank you for being a United Methodist during some of the most challenging times within the church. Your faithfulness in the midst of the church's struggle to make disciples, serve the poor, and proclaim righteousness and justice is a testimony to the power of God at work through you.

Peace and grace be yours in the name of Jesus Christ,
John R. Schol, Bishop
The United Methodist Church
The Washington, Area
Baltimore-Washington Conference

This message contains information which may be confidential and privileged. Unless you are the intended addressee (or authorized to receive for the intended addressee), you may not use, copy or disclose to anyone the message or any information contained in the message. If you have received the message in error, please advise the sender.